

Republicans

For Tomorrow.

An Important Pamphlet for YOU

WHO we are

We are an exciting group of young Republicans who want to improve the world. There are certain things that the central party can do- grassroots stuff, individual flesh-pressing, etc.

We hope to fulfill those roles in our university campuses, youth groups, and families.

HOW we see ourselves

The kneeling elephant is a symbol of the new direction that the Republicans for Tomorrow feel applies directly to their cause. It is the glory of the Grand Old Party with a new dash of humility and servitude.

WHAT we do

There are a number of goals that we are hoping to accomplish by 2012.

- First, we'd like to consolidate gains from the war on terror.
- Next, we want to see economic improvements in which all citizens- rich and poor are treated equally.

- Older veterans ought to be receiving more complete benefits from the State.
- Right now we hope to construct five orbital mind control lasers.
- Decrease spending on the sciences and arts, and invest in a more competitive military technology.

WHEN will you act?

Right now. Washington is full of politicians who are responsible for their constituency. Many of these men are admirable, brilliant people. We've liked what some of them said, so we formed our own group to try and enact those goals. Starting immediately, this year, this month, this day.
